

POETRY JAM for TRANSFORMATION

at the Boston Social Forum's Women's Web
Saturday, July 24 @ 4:30 PM -- UMASS BOSTON

TESTIFY with your poems!

Help us build a SAFE
AND BELOVED COMMUNITY
with your poems!

CREATE A NEW VISION
with your poems!

RECEIVE POWER & HEALING in the poems of others!

Whatever you do,
be sure to BE THERE!

As you may know, the Boston Social Forum will be held from July 23-25th at UMASS Boston, a few days before the DNC. Members of the Women's International League of Peace and Freedom (WILPF) are coordinating a "web" of women-inspired and women-centered activities for that weekend which will showcase what we're already doing to make "another world" possible.

One component of this web is a tribunal where women and men can testify to the various forms of violence (physical, sexual, structural etc and their intersections) they have experienced. Directly following the tribunal, the Center for New Words will host a POETRY JAM FOR TRANSFORMATION!

If you want to share a poem at the Jam, know of a poet you'd like to hear from at the Jam, or with any questions, please contact Jaclyn Friedman at the Center for New Words: Jaclyn@centerfornewwords.org or 617-876-5310. For more info on the Boston Social Forum, visit www.bostonsocialforum.org.

Spread the word!
